Works – Pond Laurel, 2012

The work crew have been pruning and chipping laurel stems from the lake edge. This is to reduce the amount of laurel, open up the lake edge, give the rhododendron a chance to fill in, possibly reduce the pH level of the water, and create a somewhat more managed look over time.